"THE STAR ROVER" --- A film adapwitten of Jack London's celebrated s'ory is today's feature attraction and will also be shown tomorrow. Courte-hay Erote with appeared in the Broad-y ay stage success, "Adam and Eve," plays the loading role. He is support-el by Thelma Percy, Jack Carlysle and others. The fact that a screen adaptation of this—celebrated story was to be shown acted as a lodestone to all who know or have heard of the vigorous, rich stories lack London de-lighted his readers with during his lettime. They were transported into the same world as the leading char-sctor—into the unseen star-world on the wings of the subconscious. This will also be shown tomorrow. Courteactor—into the unseen star-world on the wings of the subconscious. This is a tarilling, not-to-to-forgotten pleture telling of young Dr. Hugh Standing, who desectly picks up a fallen resorter in this theatre box and is promptly accused ofthe murdor of a peterson political boss. To wreat a confession, the police subject him to borth; but instead his soul goves among the stars to the scenes of his most incarnations. The flantee is second to have it stopped, when she de-sides to have the tortupe continued so hat his mind may evoke the scenes or -s chorus girl -is discovered as the

THE GOLDEN HOPE"—A gripping tory featuring Edith Storey, the emotional screen star, is being shown today and will also be presented tomor-row. Miss Storcy is seen in the role or Kate Mariner, a plucky, well bred and refined young woman, who is forced because of a misdeed commutted by her husband, Dave Mariner, to hee with him to the West. Here she follows him faithfully as he wanders from one place to another, restlessly and fevertably. Miss Storey's portrayal of the loneliness of this woman in the blesk hills and burning desert. where she is cut off from communication with other human beings, stands out as one of the best sympathetic and emotional performances Miss Storey has ever given. A love theme of pathet. le beauty runs through the entire production, because of the fineness of the characters, each unwilling to bring unhappiness to another in order to achieve their own happiness. In an excollent cast supporting Alsa Storey are Carl Gerard, Ceck Van Aukor, Marin Sals, William Elmer, Robert Flerning Omar Whitehead and Frank

THE ORPHEUM.

TORAG HARLAN" With William Farnum, the noted screen star, in a spleidly role is being shown loday and will be Saturday's attraction also One of the most interesting pictures of the west seen in mapy a day, in which ability to draw a gun with the necessary snan to insure a ripe did age is paramount, is "Dray Harlan." a William Fox production, starring the beloved "Bill" Farnum, Farnum has the part of "Orag" Harlan, foared has the part of Diag Annia, togethe has the quickest gun fightor ever known in the community. His "handie" of "Drag" was won by a peculiar trick of seeming to let his hand heatate or drag over the butt of his pistol before he finally whipped it out. Other gun fighters tried to discover the trick of Drug's peculiar draw, but found the only trick was speed. Farman has to give several demonstrations of his alacrity in drawing a six-shooter in this picture. Aside from the interest in the gun fighting element of the picture is an unusually touching romance which the star is supported by Jackie Saunders and several of the screen's best known players,
